THE TOPICS

Alginite Impressions and Model Pouring
This practical course will equip dental assistants to work with dental practitioners in taking alginate impressions when directed in the clinical environment. It is aimed at providing dental assistants with additional knowledge and skills in the taking of preliminary alginate dental impressions and pouring up alginate impressions to enable improved technique and clinical outcomes.

Infection Control for Dentists and their Team
This seminar will assist dental practices in their implementation of the 2015 ADA Infection Control Guidelines. The objective is to build individual staff members’ awareness so they can assess compliance with current recommendations. The course is designed to provide advice on clinical points of implementation and common questions which arise.

Risk Management in the Dental Practice: AHPRA, Health Funds, Contracts of Sale and Employment Law
Risk Management is often about matters over which you have no control or that are so remote that they do not bear any serious thought. But what about those that can stop you from practicing and or are so significant that the event might impact on your business and stop it completely. This seminar is made up of a presentation on how to deal with these four topics – AHPRA, Health Funds, contracts of sale and restraint, and finally Employment Law in the workplace. A ‘risk management’ checklist will be developed during this session to be taken back to the practice and implemented.

Professional Record Keeping and Effective Communication
This lecture will cover the importance of professional clinical record keeping and effective communication with patients and others. Topics covered will include; confidentiality and privacy, informed consent, disclosure and how to deal with patient complaints.

Veneers and Aesthetic Composites in Practice
This hands-on workshop will look at the range of options for placement of anterior veneers for optimal functional and aesthetic outcomes. The course will include several hands-on exercises to enable participants to improve their skills in case selection and tooth preparation for a range of veneer cases.

Practical Removable Prosthodontics for the General Practitioner
This session will consist of three useful topics in removable prosthodontics. Firstly, the Examination of the Edentulous Mouth, secondly, Complete Lower Implant Retained Over-denture and lastly, Making Partial Dentures Work.

Dental Practice Accreditation Update
The ADAQ Education & Advisory Services Team will present a practice update with regards to dental practice accreditation.

Management of Medical Emergencies in the Dental Practice
This course is for dental professionals who need to know how to recognise and manage a variety of emergencies which can arise in the dental environment. This practical and comprehensive course will cover both Basic Life Support (BLS) of a collapsed patient and the management of an acutely unwell patient due to a range of serious and lifethreatening emergencies, as well as how to manage them using the Australian Resuscitation Council Protocols.

Ageing and Special Needs Patients
This lecture will examine the special problems around caring for elderly and special needs patients including communication and consent, modifications to treatment planning, and particular management issues for patients with dementia, mental illness, immune suppression and diabetes.
